

LOOKING FOR A PLACE TO SPEND A SEMESTER IN YOUR MASTERS PROGRAM?

STUDY ABOUT SPORTS IN THE USA at The Academy of International Sport at George Mason University near Washington DC

Our program is especially designed to fit the European model of masters degree programs in sport. We allow students to do 3 or 4 courses depending on what each country and university recommends. Where possible we match program costs to student grants.

Semester runs from late August to mid-December but there is also an option to join our program in Barbados from January 3-17, 2013 included as part of your semester away studies.

During your stay we also host the Sport in the Global South II Conference, November 12-14 and there you will meet scholars from around the world.

This year students also attended many sports matches including the Washington Redskins in the NFL; the Washington Capitals in NHL ice hockey; the U.S. Open Tennis Championship, George Mason University sports; and took trips to New York City, Miami, and California and more.

January Class in Barbados

At the NFL game!

George Mason University campus

Niagara Falls in December

Courses:

History of Leisure and Sport in American Society; Foundations of Sport and Recreation Studies; Sport Marketing and Sales; The Global Soccer Industry

Program Faculty Members Include:

Professor John Nauright, AIS Director
Professor Verner Møller, Visiting Professor from Aarhus University, Denmark
Professor David Wiggins, Assistant Dean, Recreation, Health, and Tourism

For more information, please contact Professor John Nauright, AIS Director at jnaurigh@gmu.edu